

Moorish Idol

Moorish Idols are some of the most beautiful fish found in the warm waters of coral reefs and tropical lagoons. Their bold stripes help the Moorish Idol confuse other fish that want to eat it. This type of camouflage is called "disruptive coloration" - it breaks up the body outline and makes it harder for predators to tell where the fish begins and ends

