

Little Blue Penguins

At just 12 inches tall, little blue penguins are the smallest species of penguins on Earth! Their unique color helps them hide in the open ocean. From above, their dark blue backs disappear into the dark depths. From below, their light bellies blend into the sunlit waters. This adaptation is called countershading.

